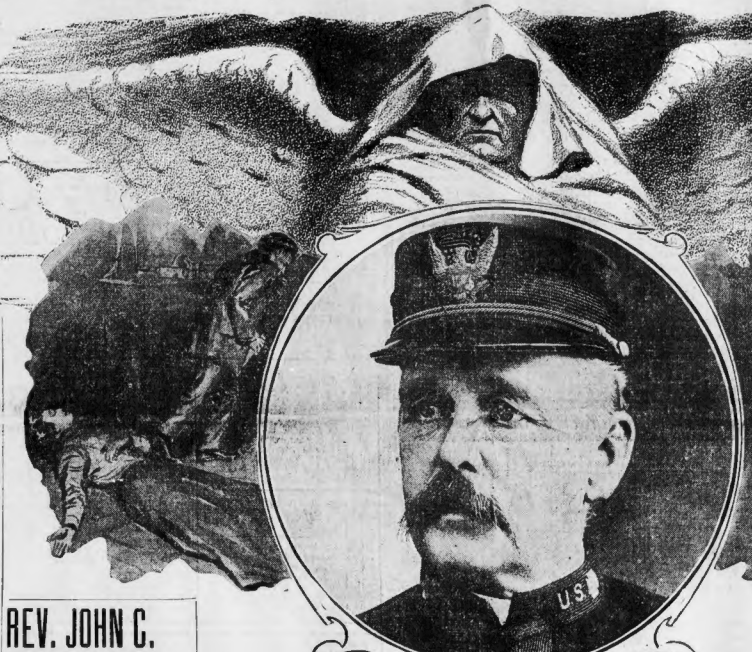
DR. FRANCIS A. HARRIS DECLARES:

'TUCKER INNOCENT'

DEPOSED MEDICAL EXAMINER SAYS STATE PROVED ALIBI



DR. HARRIS, DEPOSED MEDICAL EXAMINER, AS HE LOOKS TO-DAY. Dr. Harris

Startling deduction in famous case made in statement by former State official to the Boston American—Analysis of evidence shows, he asserts, complete innocence of young man who went to the death chair for the crime.

Over the lives and fortunes of many persons has fallen the shadow of the Page tragedy. Dr. Harris is the latest to feel its blight.

DEATH IN WRECK OF SCHOONER

The Alice T. Boardman Pounding to Pieces on Handkerchief Shoal.

WHOLE CREW IMPERILLED

Special to the Boston American.

CHATHAM, Jan. 4.—While the captain and crew of the wrecked schooner Alice T. Boardman were being taken off the vessel on the deadly Handkerchief Shoal today by the Monomoy Point life-saving crew one of the Boardman's sailors, Thomas Henry of St. John, was drowned by the overturning of the lifeboat.

The captain and the three other sailors were saved with great difficulty. The schooner is fast being battered to pieces by the heavy seas which are rolling over the Handkerchief, and will undoubtedly be a total loss.

The Boardman is a 100-ton coaster owned by H. F. Eaton & Sons of Calais, Me. She was on her way to Hyannis with a $5,000 cargo of lumber. She was commanded by Captain William Robinson of St. John. The other three sailors beside Henry, who was drowned, are George Howard, Richard Warburg and Horace Sullivan, all of St. John.

The Boardman came down the coast yesterday and ran into rough weather off the Handkerchief last night. She anchored for the night, but the anchor dragged with the rising wind and the little schooner quickly drifted on to the shoal. She struck with great force. The sea began to pour over her and the men were forced in short time to take to the rigging. There they hung on and burned signal lights, hoping that some rescue would come.

The first signal was seen at 4 o'clock to-day by the Monomoy patrol. Captain Curley and his life crew got out the lifeboat and rowed eight miles through very dirty weather and high seas to the wrecked schooner.

The sea was running so high it took the life savers one hour to get to the wreck. By that time the Boardman's decks were awash, and it was hard to get the lifeboat close enough for taking the wrecked men off.

The life savers boarded the schooner, holding their boat as close to the wreck's rail as they could. Henry, the first seaman to board the lifeboat, was no sooner aboard that the lifeboat capsized. Henry was not seen again. The lifeboat was righted and the others got ashore.

CITY OFFICIAL OF QUINCY DROPS DEAD

While delivering milk on Revere road early to-day, George W. Taylor, for ten years assistant city tax collector of Quincy, dropped dead. Heart disease was the cause. Taylor was fifty years old. He leaves a wife, three sons and a daughter.

THIEVES GET CHEWING GUM.

POINT MADE BY DR. HARRIS MADE STRONG BY VAHEY

James B. Vahey, who was senior counsel for Charles L. Tucker at the famous Mabel Page murder trial, declared to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter that the greater part of his attention during the trial was devoted to the matter of time and that the strongest arguments were made on the very points which former Medical Examiner Harris, in his statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN, says proved Tucker innocent of the crime.

"I am sick and tired of this man's action," said Mr. Vahey to-day. "He made all kinds of contradictory statements, and to say that I gave no attention to that most important feature of the Tucker case—the time Mabel Page was killed—is a lie, a downright lie. Look at the testimony and you will see for yourself the issue I made of this matter of time."

Quotes Closing Argument.

Mr. Vahey produced Volume 4 of the official records of the Tucker case, and to substantiate his statements selected the following extracts, which is a part of his closing argument to the jury:

Significance of Note.

"That note says, Mr. Foreman and gentlemen, 'Have gone in twelve o'clock.' Do you believe that note means what it says? Do you believe 'Have gone in twelve o'clock' means 'Have gone in half-past twelve,' or 'quarter past twelve'?

"Do you believe that the clock which was fronting this woman when she wrote that note was right on the 31st day of March? I don't care whether on the fourth day of April it was seven minutes wrong or two minutes wrong. What I am concerned with is what the time was on the 31st day of March, and in that respect, Mr. Foreman, we have the absolute testimony of Amy Roberts that on the 31st day of March the clock was right, and there has been no member of that household called to contradict that assertion.

"And if that clock was right on the 31st day of March, do you not believe that this woman, precise, accurate, methodical in her habits, was putting down upon that piece of paper what she intended to put down, and that she was putting down there either one of two thoughts—either that she was going to leave her house in time to catch a car or a train that left at 12 o'clock, or else she was going to leave the house at 12 o'clock.

Accuracy of Woman.

"This kind of a woman that has been described here, this precise, accurate, methodical woman, would not have written down so that slip fifteen minutes time that she did not mean. If she was leaving the house at quarter past 12, or half-past 11, she would have written it down, but she did not do that. he wrote down what she undoubtedly had in her mind at that time, and you cannot believe from the evidence in this case that you are justified in finding that it was more than a minute or two or a few minutes at best away from that, either way.

Evidence of Mr. Page.

"What other evidence is there in the case with reference to the clock? The evidence of Mr. Page, who said that the clock sometimes ran down, that by reason of the curious way in which the weights were attached they sometimes ran down before the ordinary time that the clock ought to run; that this was an eight-day clock, and sometimes, having been wound on Monday, which was the regular custom, it would run out on Thursday.

"There isn't anything to indicate that this clock was not kept very nearly right all the time, because Mr. Page says that when he saw the clock was not right he changed it and made it right.

Her Last Message.

"And if you believe that on 31st day this woman knew that that clock was right, then you must find that this poor dead woman, accurate, methodical and precise in her habits, put down upon that piece of paper, which is the last message we have before her death, just exactly what she meant, and that she meant either one of the two assertions that I have made to you—that she was going to take a train or a car that left at 12 o'clock, or that she was going to leave the house at 12 o'clock. And if she was going to take a train or a car that left at 12 o'clock, she would have had to leave her house at 11:30. Half an hour was the time that it would take her to walk the distance from the Page house either to the Weston Bridge or to the Auburndale station.

SLAY FOLLOWERS OF TRAITOR TO RAISULI

TANGIER, Jan. 4.—Followers of Raisuli have ambushed a number of the tribe of Ben Mansour, Raisuli's former agent, who deserted him with his men, and killed most of them.

That the note which Mabel Page had written just before she was murdered, and which was used as the most important pieces of circumstantial evidence convicting Charles Louis Tucker of her death, was proof that Tucker was innocent of the crime, is the startling assertion of former Medical Examiner Frank Harris.

In an interview granted to the BOSTON AMERICAN, Dr. Harris makes this remarkable statement, and at the same time he explains how he changed his opinion regarding the knife wounds in Mabel Page's breast bone.

"RIGHT IN FIRST VIEW."

That his removal from the position which he has held for twenty-eight years was entirely due to this change in his opinion and his final discovery that he was right in his first view, is the emphatic declaration of Dr. Harris.

That the most vital point in the whole case, and one which if brought out would have probably resulted in Tucker's acquittal, Dr. Harris declared, had never been made clear by the defence. The former medical examiner showed that the question of time of the murder had not been taken into account.

"BRING OUT WHOLE TRUTH."

Mabel Page's last handwriting, insisted Dr. Harris, declared Charles Louis Tucker innocent of her murder. Recalling his twenty-eight years of service to the State, Dr. Harris said he thought he should be remembered by the public.

His untiring effort to bring out the whole truth in the Tucker case, he declared, was really what caused his dismissal. "Then be made this startling assertion:

"The crux of the Tucker case was never brought out by the defense. Tucker was proven not guilty by the testimony of the government's first four witnesses.

"This does not refer to the knife wounds, to my investigations and twice changed opinions, nor to any newly discovered evidence. The proof of the innocence of Charles L. Tucker was established when the four first witnesses had left the stand.

"I will show you how. It was testified that the clock at the Page house was accurate. It was proved that Tucker went to the house the day of the murder he reached it after 12 o'clock noon. The note left by Mabel Page was positively written before 12 o'clock by its own evidence.

"I send 'I have just heard Harry is hurt and is at the Massachusetts Hospital. Have gone to, 12 o'clock.' Will leave key of front side door with key of barn stairs. Will telephone Mrs. Bennett.'

A MATTER OF 30 MINUTES.

"Now for the analysis," said Dr. Harris. "The note was in Mabel Page's handwriting. She wrote it before leaving the house. Very likely she wrote it before changing her clothes to go. Anyway, it was before noon, for the note told distinctly that she would be on her way at 12 o'clock.

"Then it was a evidence that Tucker reached the Page house toward half past 12 noon, which was half an hour after she would have been on her way.

"Then, Tucker could not have been the murderer. That point may have been seen by the prosecution, but it was not brought out by the defence and it was the crux of the Tucker case."

Dr. Harris gave no outward sign of disappointment at the action of Governor Guild in deposing him as medical examiner. His voice was clear and strong, his eye steadfast and his attitude manly in the extreme.

In the fifty minutes accorded the BOSTON AMERICAN representative he freely discussed the case and pronounced it, without bitterness, he would think, the matter over, he said, before making a statement over his own signature.

No credit or blame was assumed by Dr. Harris, though he freely said that his dismissal grew out of the Tucker case. This he knew, because the Governor had told him so.

THOUGHT ONLY OF DUTY.

Then he launched into the Tucker case ethically and almost unconsciously told how he had labored days and lost his

JEROME SAYS HE WILL DEMAND CHAIR OR ASYLUM FOR THAW

District Attorney Declares on Eve of Trial That He Will Not Consent to Free Prisoner.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Though Mrs. Charles J. Holman, the mother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, has signified her willingness to tell all she knows of the incidents preceding the shooting of Stanford White, it is said in the district attorney's office that she will not be called as a witness for the prosecution unless it is to contradict the evidence of Thaw himself.

Mrs. Holman can add nothing, it is said, to strengthen the case of the State against Thaw, and all the letters which passed between her and Stanford White, it is said, are clearly inadmissible as evidence, are not in any way binding on Thaw and merely can be of use in furnishing suggestions for the cross-examination of the defendant.

It is contended in the District Attorney's office that it is no part of the State's case against Thaw to prove that he ever treated Evelyn Nesbit brutally, as has been alleged by Mrs. Holman and other witnesses before and since her marriage to him. The District Attorney is not anxious to be placed in the position of arraigning mother against daughter unless it becomes absolutely necessary.

For Light on Motive.

Mrs. Holman's testimony can only be of value in throwing light upon the motive for the killing of Stanford White and the bitter enmity that Thaw had toward the architect from the time Evelyn Nesbit ran away from Thaw in Paris and rejoined Stanford White and her mother in this city.

According to the plan of District-Attorney Jerome, who will prosecute Thaw in person, the testimony will be directed to show the manner in which White was killed and the proof of the enmity of Thaw which Thaw made in public and private. It takes the life of White, during a period of two years, as showing that the killing was deliberate and premeditated, as required by the statute defining murder in the first degree.

That there will be any trial is regarded as doubtful. It is believed that Thaw will be sent to the Matteawan Asylum.

If Thaw is declared sane when his trial begins, he will be allowed to tell the motive for the killing of White, but the district attorney will object strenuously to the introduction of testimony to show that the motive was anything else than self-defense, the only justification allowed by the statutes and decisions of the court of appeals in this State.

To Prove Premeditation.

All the power of the district attorney's office will be exerted to prevent Thaw from being benefited by any plea of insanity which will enable him to obtain his liberty.

The district attorney will confine himself to proving premeditation and real his aim is going as few witnesses as possible.

When Evelyn Nesbit Thaw left the Tombs with Mrs. William Thaw yesterday, she said:

"I am sure my mamma will not do anything to hurt Harry or injure me in our trouble, if she will rid anybody she will, rid us."

NEW WITNESSES SAY WHITE ANNOYED EVELYN NESBIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Harry K. Thaw's lawyers set great store by two new witnesses who, it is believed, can testify concerning Stanford White's attentions to Evelyn Nesbit after her return from Europe and when she was as yet unmarried. These witnesses are Miss Frances E. Pierce and Dudley Bailey, the former at one time housekeeper for Mrs. Laura Jewett, of No. 49 West Thirty-seventh street, and the latter one of the maids.

Thaw's lawyers are after another witness, Laura Williams, also a maid at the Jewett house and now said to be in Philadelphia.

Miss Pierce, who is an elderly Quakeress, lives at No. 12 East Twenty-ninth street. It is alleged that Mr. White called one night while Miss Nesbit was a resident of the Jewett house. They called there every day and accompanied Miss Nesbit out to meals. The agreement Miss Nesbit used was said to have cost Thaw $250 a week.

Miss Pierce, it is said, remembers that Stanford White called one night and tried to force his way in. She says she is sure it was White, for he had a brown mustache.

The Bailey girl, who lives at No. 406 Carlton avenue, Brooklyn, said last night she remembered the incident.

"One night," she said, "a tall, clean shaven man called. He was standing at the door slightly stooped over. He appeared to be trying to shade his face. He was a bit scared and suddenly withdrew. As I did so I felt him trying to force the door from my hand. I gave it a quick shove and slammed it shut. He tried to push in the door.

"I watched him from the window. He then straightened up and hurried down the stoop. Miss Williams saw him go down the street toward Fifth avenue.

"I afterward heard the folks say it was Stanford White and that it was White and no one else who had tried to force his way in. We understood there was bad blood between him and Mr. Thaw."

CONSUELO AND DUKE RECONCILED BY KING

Special Cable from the Hearst News Service.

Copyright, 1907, by W. R. Hearst.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The Duke of Marlborough and the Duchess, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, have sunk their differences and forgiven each other, it was learned to-day, and are once more united. The Marlborough reconciliation was accomplished by no less a personage than King Edward himself.

The uncle of Europe," as King Edward has come to be called, used his tact as a peacemaker in order to prevent a permanent rupture between the Duke and Duchess, both of whom he has always regarded as his personal friends.

After laboring with each, the King was at last successful in getting both to agree to meet the other for a little talk. They had not spoken a word to each other, and only met each other in the most formal way at such social affairs as were absolutely impossible to escape since the Duchess's legal separation from her husband.

But the King had a lengthy talk with both the Duke and Duchess. Each, it is understood, admitted to King Edward that there were faults on both sides. This provided what is diplomatically known as "a modus vivendi." The Duke and Duchess met on boxing day for the first time since their quarrel.

Explanations, it is said, were forthcoming. And these explanations were not all from the Duke. Some sort of an understanding was quickly established, and King Edward was shortly afterward informed that there would be no separation.

It is nearly three months now since the Duke and Duchess furnished Mayfair with the sensation of the season by agreeing to disagree. King Edward then knew what was likely to happen, and partly out of policy and partly out of good nature tried to avert the scandal.

But the Duchess displayed what the King was at the time quoted as calling "Vanderbilt obstinacy," and his friendly offices proved futile.

The Duchess told the King, it was said in London drawing rooms, that it was simply impossible for her to get along any longer with the Duke; that he neglected her shamefully, and that she was determined once for all to assert herself.

By most of those who know the Duchess best her ardent admiration of independence enough to revolt at her treatment by the Duke is believed to have been a direct result of the determination of that other American girl, Anna Gould, then the Countess de Castellane.

But determined as she had become on forcing an issue, the Duchess was not prepared to endure the publicity that attended Anna Gould's gaining her freedom. Besides, these things are done differently in England than they are in France. It is a somewhat easier matter, for one thing, than it is in France, and the notoriety is in proportion to the case.

SENATE AGAINST LODGE ON NEGRO SOLDIER PROBE

Brownsville Inquiry Into Discharge of Troops to Proceed, Despite Bay State Man.

TO STAND BY FORAKER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—In the issue raised between Senators Foraker and Lodge as to the constitutionality of the President's action in summarily dismissing three companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, it is believed that the Senate will line up with the Senator from Ohio.

Lodge's amendment for Foraker's resolution authorizing an inquiry into the Brownsville affair would put the stamp of senatorial approval upon the President's course before taking any testimony in the case and will probably be voted down.

Senator Foraker will respond to Mr. Lodge's speech on Monday, and it is expected that the discussion will involve a number of other Senators.

At the end it is fully expected that the Senate will authorize the military committee to make the proposed investigation. But it will be near the end of January before the inquiry can begin. The committee will await the promised additional message from the President on the subject, including the result of the investigations made by Assistant Attorney General Purdy, so that it may decide upon the list of witnesses it desires to hear.

Purdy is expected back in Washington in a day or two. It will take two more weeks to get the witnesses here. It will be near the end of the session before the committee will be able to make its report.

FIND NEGRO WITNESS WHO MAY CONVICT GUILTY TROOPERS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 4.—Assistant Attorney-General Purdy, here making an investigation into the Brownsville rioting by members of the Twenty-fifth infantry, thinks he has an important witness in Lem Reeves, a negro soldier, on whose testimony he thinks he can convict every man directly connected with the trouble.

The negro has given the names of two soldiers missing from the company when the roll to quarters was sounded just after the outbreak. He also makes damaging statements against Major Penrose and Captain Martlin.

DEATH TURNS BANQUET TO GATHERING OF MOURNERS

Rev. A. E. George Points Lesson in Tragic Ending of Everett Ex-Mayor.

By Rev. Albert E. George.

"In the midst of life we are in death," was really verified at the complimentary banquet to Mayor Boynton of Everett.

Ex-Mayor John D. Henderson of Everett arises to speak with a smile upon his face and with his proverbial humor in view. He reads part of a humorous poem, and after finishing, he attempts to raise a glass of water to his lips. His hand shakes, the glass falls and strikes the floor. Suddenly the stalwart form wavers, totters, and sinks into the arms of a life-long friend.

Where he stood a minute before to make amusement for his friends, there he falls down dead. The whole scene of merriment and good fellowship is wrapt in the shadow of death.

Over the faces of smiling guests appears the grimness of the death chamber. Joking has departed. A profound silence encircles. Men are looking into each other's faces and are stunned at the sudden reversal of their pleasure; some are uttering a prayer; others are bowed in grief. A few farther away from the scene cautiously ask: "What has happened?" They are told and join the mourning assembly where the contrast from joy to sorrow is so sudden.

Death enters where we least expect the tread of its silent feet. It throws its mantle over the happiness of life and turns sadness on to warm us all.

It sees loving hands take away the speechless form and tenderly breaks the news to the ones bereaved.

It stands and strikes with its awful form through the avenues of pleasure and sometimes leaves without impressing its mark behind.

Then again, it strikes as it did in this instance, and writes with its finger the handwriting on the wall, "Remember you must die." It is the handwriting that we are apt to forget. We often succeed in hiding the thought and keep it as far as we can out of our sight. Yet it is flashed across our horizon. And it stuns us all with the revelation that it makes.

"So live that when thy summons comes to join That innumerable caravan that moves To that mysterious realm, where each shall take His chamber in the silent halls of death.

"In the morning, it is green and groweth up, but in the evening it is cut down and withered"
—Psalms, xc., 6 Verse.

Thou go not like the quarry-slave at night
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one that draws the drapery of his couch
Around him and lies down to pleasant dreams.

PUP ARRESTED FOR REVELING

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—A blindle bull pup, wearing a handsome collar, convicted Detective Baxter that it was finishing a New Year's celebration, last night. The pup, was apparently trying to see how many children it could trip up in a given time.

"He's disorderly," thought Baxter, and forthwith placed the pup under arrest. The bull pup will be arraigned in court to-day.

LITTLE ROCK IS FLOODED.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 4.—Little Rock is nearly isolated to-day by floods. Families have been driven from their homes and in the surrounding country much stock has been drowned.

WAR ON THE HARRIMAN ROADS IS ON TO-DAY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The investigation of the Harriman railroad merger, which starts to-day in the Federal Building, marks the opening of the greatest political-financial conflict the country ever has witnessed.

The President has not minced words in telling recent callers that he regards Harriman's gigantic railway schemes as a menace to public welfare. Harriman has retorted by denouncing the President as a meddler, and declaring his intention of overriding the President and the laws of the country in consummating his plans for a nation-wide railroad combination which shall stifle competition and throw the transportation facilities of the country under the control of the little group of Standard Oil financiers of which he is the head.

The President realizes that this is the hardest fight that the administration has undertaken. He intends to smash the Harriman combination and return the individual roads to their original competitive positions.

Mr. Roosevelt has started the Interstate Commerce Commission to work. Commissioners Knapp and Lane arrived here last night. The hearing opened at 10 o'clock to-day. E. H. Harriman is one of the witnesses.

AID TROOPS, CRY 1000 TO CRANE

W. M. Trotter, president of the New England suffrage league, has sent to United States Senator W. Murray Crane a petition signed by 1,000 colored citizens of Massachusetts, asking the Senator to do all in his power looking to the reinstatement of all members of the Twenty-fifth United States Infantry, colored, who were ordered discharged without honor by President Roosevelt, Nov. 6.

It is noteworthy that the petition contains no reference to the senior Senator, Henry Cabot Lodge. The appeal to Senator Crane is ascribed to his having heretofore stood firmly for equal rights regardless of color, in opposition to Jim Crow cars for the blacks, in connection with the rate bill.

WIFE, AGED 15, SEEKS FREEDOM

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Charlotte Emily Brown-Spanisna, only fifteen years old, is suing for freedom from the husband she married nearly two years ago. Charlotte was one of the prettiest girls in Public School No. 72 when she met the young fellow, who was assistant janitor of the building. They eloped to Brooklyn.

Charlotte and her husband lived happily until their baby died. Now, it is alleged, he is guilty of brutality and desertion.

KAISER AND CROWN PRINCE DO NOT SPEAK

German Emperor and Heir Have Bitter Quarrel; Refuse to Be Reconciled.

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 4.—Kaiser William and the Crown Prince Frederick William are no longer on speaking terms, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Manchester Dispatch. The trouble followed a serious quarrel over the colonial office exposure.

When the revelations as to methods pursued by the colonial office in America were made known, the Crown Prince demanded that there should be an inquiry and punishment for every guilty person. The Kaiser could not agree to this, saying every detail of the affair had been exaggerated.

Then followed a bitter quarrel, and the two men have not spoken since. The Empress and Crown Princess have done everything possible to effect a reconciliation, but in vain.

CONNECTICUT TAKES ON TORPEDO OUTFIT

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 4.—The battleship Connecticut, one of the recent additions to the navy and a production of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, arrived here last evening from Hampton Roads to take on board her torpedo outfit.

Gigantic Purchase of Union Made Suits and Overcoats

We have just purchased, at a terrific sacrifice, for spot cash, the entire Winter stock of Suits and Overcoats from Adolph Aarons & Co., New York's biggest manufacturers of union-made clothing. Coming, as this does, at the beginning of winter, just when you need heavy clothes the most, this tremendous purchase, combined with our own great stock, also marked at sacrifice prices, offers money-saving opportunities such as no shrewd buyer can afford to miss.

Greatest Clothing Sale of the Year

Adolph Aarons & Co.'s hand-tailored garments—the best union label clothing in the country—Here they are for less than the maker's cost—less perhaps than the cost of the bare materials from which they are made.

$10.00 Suits - 5.75

Heavy, all-wool rich cheviots, splendid styles, hand tailored, details perfect. They are mighty neat business suits, and are now selling elsewhere for $10.00; here at $5.75.

$20 Suits Handsome suits which defy the custom tailor. English silk mixed worsteds, royal Scotches—Haskett cassimeres, exclusive rich patterns, each garment molded by hand, stitch by stitch, and will retain their shape indefinitely. Every suit worth $20.00, during the sale..... 13.50

$13.50 Suits - 7.50

Snappy Cassimeres. Four beautiful styles of those swell, heavy Scotch cheviots, black and white mixtures, and plain dressy black cloths, in double and single breasted models. The cloth alone costs more than the sale price of $7.50.

$4 Trousers Under ordinary conditions you would be justified in paying $4.00 for these trousers. Our great sale, however, enables us to offer them at..... 2.95

$15.00 Suits - - - 8.75

Genuine Monongahela Mills Worsteds, exclusive cassimeres, heavy Scotches, delightful patterns, refined, subdued, rich and elegant. Suits that will appeal to gentlemen of taste and culture. Made by Aarons & Company, for their fine trade, to sell for $15.00.

Remember this is no clearance of unsalable odds and ends, but a stock fresh from the workrooms, most complete in variety, sizes and styles.

$13.50 Overcoats 7.50

Swagger Chesterfield coats in blue and black Kerseys, Italian cloth lined. Cut 44 inches long. If you don't need an overcoat for a year to come, it would pay you to buy one now for future needs. At $7.50 they are about half their real value.

Mabel Page Death Note, Says Harris, 'PROVES TUCKER INNOCENT'

REMARKABLE STATEMENT BY EX-EXAMINER

sleep at night considering the fine discriminating points of the case, pro and con, his whole life being, not to uphold the Commonwealth if the case of the government was faulty, not to save the prisoner on some critical point emphasized out of proportion to the rest, but to do his duty to all parties, to the Commonwealth, to humanity, to himself and to his Maker.

Once out of the labyrinth of criminal and surgical ethics and his sense of duty, then cropped forth the expressed opinion that the knife exhibited at the trial could not have caused the wound in question. The cartilage at the lower end of the breast bone was gapped where the back of the knife drove through. Later he saw the knife's point. He experimented with the gap was really a puncture from the point of the knife. He experimented and so came back to his original decision that the Tucker knife could, after all, have done it.

"I either talked too much or not enough," he said. "I tried to do right and not go to the grave with the blood of an innocent man upon my soul. It was a trying situation and my health at the time was not very good. I was not sure that I would last very long and justice cried out within me.

TRIED TO DO RIGHT.

"Neither can an outsider realize the amount of technical work I performed in reaching my conclusions, the one in favor and the other against Charles L. Tucker.

I only say that I tried to do what was right, and for acting honestly I am now removed from office.

The words and attitude of Dr. Harris could not fail to carry conviction to the listener. When he discussed details, the profundity of his experience was as apparent as his honesty of purpose.

His twenty-eight years of valuable work to the county had apparently been set at naught and reckoned as nothing. His honesty of purpose had not entered into consideration.

When the superior skill and high enthusiasm of the medical staff, summoned and questioned the State's presentments he had made himself, he was obnoxious to the State and a candidate for removal from office.

"I have been seen and telephoned to by men from all over the State since the notice of my removal was made public. They have offered every form of consolation and encouragement, of which I shall not now speak.

"That they existed in the Tucker case a Michaevill has been thrust upon me at all turns."

MAY MAKE STATEMENT.

"Michaevill was the man who, from high official places, preached and practiced the doctrine that the end justified the means, was he not," the reporter asked Dr. Harris.

"If a Michaevill existed in the Tucker case it was not Governor Guild," was the guarded reply of Dr. Harris, "though he has now dismissed me from office."

The incident suggested other men prominent in the Tucker trial, but Dr. Harris would not name the men nor admit he had a name in mind. He said:

"I really might sit down into these matters. The time may come when I will make a statement over my own signature. It will make readers take notice, but this is not the psychological moment. I shall wait and think it out."

"You have talked too much and too little at the time of your investigations and changes of opinion. I know what you mean. Some, reading, believe you suffered from hallucination, for example."

"I and how little they know the study and scientific experimenting that I performed and the infinity of pathological conditions and circumstances that entered into the matter."

"Some, too, were of the opinion that you had determined to aid the Tucker defense?"

WAS NOT INFLUENCED.

"Yes, they thought I had been bought up by the defence, perhaps, and how far they came from doing me justice. To this day I have a grievance that scarcely can be healed against the very Tucker defenders.

"And some others believed, when you switched back to your original opinion that the Tucker knife could after all have made the wound, that you had been assailed by high officials and coerced into resuming your original position as to that wound and that knife.

"Which was also unjust, for no man or number of men or greatness of human position could have induced me to sway one jot or tittle from that I thought was right and honest.

"And it was only the other day that a statement appeared in a Boston paper that was widely copied, to the effect that you had experienced another change of opinion and re-embraced the doctrine that the Tucker knife could not have made the wound.

"And that, too, was wrong. It was not true. The knife certainly could have caused the wound. Only once did I swerve from that opinion, and you know the disturbance it created. It is responsible for my dismissal from the position of medical examiner. But I also told you in the beginning of this talk that the crux of the Tucker defence was never brought out—the matter of time—the fact that Mabel Page wrote the note saying 'I have gone in (to Boston) twelve o'clock (noon), while by the evidence presented, Tucker did not leave his home in Auburndale until twelve o'clock noon.

HURTS HIM YET.

"There was the point, and it hurts me yet, that in the interest of justice and truth this point was not made—yes, made and emphasized. If it could be contravened, well and good, the time to do it was then, at the trial. It should not have remained overlooked until the work of the electric chair has rendered impossible any measure of reparation if the point is well taken.

"Why do you say with positiveness that Governor Guild removed you on account of the Tucker case?"

"Because he practically told me so. He said I had testified two different ways. I objected that his was hardly the truth, but he insisted. He brought up other little points, some of them referring to the past ten years old, but passed them over, and at the end he demanded my resignation."

"And you did not hand it in at the designated time?"

"No, I did not. Friends in high places agreed if it must go that it should be offered with a time extension of a number of weeks before election. I feel that I neglected it too far.

TOOK PRIDE IN OFFICE.

"I allowed the matter to go by default, as it were, through illness and duties and a combination of things. I did not give it the attention commensurate with its importance and to-day I was removed—removed for unfitness—unfitness to administer an office I have filled with pride that I think was pardonable, for twenty-eight years.

"It took a long time to make the discovery that I was unfit. During the time I have figured in many serious and difficult cases, and my work has passed unquestioned. Surely the one case of Charles L. Tucker must have greatly overshadowed all others, that for an expression of honest conviction it should result in my summary dismissal from service."

"How did the Governor state his position and reason for calling for your resignation?"

"He said that he felt that my change of opinion in the Tucker case and the confusion and talk engendered had unfitted me, because it lessened the public confidence in my judgment. My honesty of purpose was not in question, but would the great public ever again feel that they could depend upon my findings with absolute certainty? That was the point and the ground for asking for my resignation—a question of public confidence.

HARMS HIS FUTURE.

"No, I do not recall that I mentioned to him the matter of years or multitude of effort, or urged over strongly the sense of duty prompting me to continue my investigation of the Tucker matter, resulting in the temporary error concerning the knife wound. A great many prominent men talked with me and many things were said. I recall the Governor's words, of course, because they were vital to my position and my financial situation.

"You see, to fill the office of medical examiner as long as I have presupposes the loss of private medical practice. It can be reckoned almost as all. A removal under the circumstances also heightens the improbability of ever securing substantial practice in the future, because of those high 'official positions.'

"Why not inform the public through the press of all the actualities in the situation?"

"That requires careful consideration and, I have before stated, this does not seem the right time to do so."

"I will tell you, since you ask it, how I happened to make the statement public that has now led to my dismissal.

CAUSE OF STATEMENT.

"A representative of a Boston newspaper was in conversation with me one day, when the subject was freshest in my mind. I had been studying and experimenting and I could not make it seem natural that the Tucker knife, possessing one cutting edge and that cutting edge turned away from the cartilage, had cut a gap in the cartilage.

"I knew the back of the knife could not have cut the gap that was found in the lower extremity of the sternum or breast bone. It is the ensiform cartilage and the autopsy plainly showed a gap in it, even though the single cutting edge of the blade had turned outward from it. I had thought and worked over it, and couldn't straddle the seeming paradox.

"So I spoke about it half unconsciously and being enthusiastic I suppose I elaborated. Some of them seem open to matter.

"When the papers took it up and it was turned into a weapon of defence for Tucker I was still of the same opinion, though I refused to discuss it further until I should have had opportunity for further practical demonstration.

"One night it came to me. The gap in the cartilage was a puncture from the point of the knife and not caused by a cutting edge. Hence the Tucker knife, single-edged, could have caused it, for it possessed a point, and the point could have punctured the cartilage as it penetrated the body.

"That morning I hurried to my office and called to Dr. Brown, my assistant, saying: 'Dr. Brown, I have found it. It was a puncture, not a cut, in the cartilage.'

"Dr. Brown looked up and repied that

Did Mabel Page Herself Furnish Tucker Alibi?

Dr. Harris, just removed from the office of medical examiner by Governor Guild on account of his action in the Tucker case, declares the note, of which a fac-simile is printed below, in connection with the facts established by the State as to the time of Tucker's movements, clearly establishes his innocence.

MABEL PAGE'S LAST WRITTEN WORDS.

Have just heard Harold is hurt and is at the Mass. Hospital, have gone in —12 o'clock. Will leave key of front side door with key of barn stairs. Will telephone to Mrs. Bennett.

CZAR IN PANIC OF FEAR OVER DEATH OF PREFECT

By Robert Crozier Long.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 4.—Panic reigns in the imperial palace at Tsarskoe-Selo over the assassination of Major-General von der Launitz, the Czar's equerry and prefect of police at St. Petersburg. Owing to the presence in the chapel of the Czar's relatives, and because it was discovered last night that the assassin recently visited Tsarskoe-Selo and attempted to hurl bombs in the imperial village, the capital is now convinced that the terrorists planned to assassinate the Czar.

"I have learned that yesterday's assassination, including the killing of Count Ignatieff and the attempt on Admiral Dubassoff, is part of a general plot by terrorists to slay all important officials. Curiously all the assassins thus far investigated come from Moscow, where belongs the terrorist wing, the Maximilist party. This wing of the terrorists goes higher than the other divisions, its list including among those condemned to assassination the high officials.

"The police last night informed me that the Maximilist party compelled seven of their members to kill themselves by poison in November for failing to execute the Moscow governor, Herschelmin, and Prefect of Police Reinbott. Several attempts were made to slay both men. The stickies' bodies are hidden under the river ice at Moscow, where the police are searching to obtain clews.

"The secret police are in great alarm over yesterday's assassination. To-day they are arresting people right and left. Hundreds of workmen from Moscow are locked up. What terrifies the authorities is the fact that the assassins are ready to kill themselves. Yesterday's assassin was a fine, well dressed and intellectual. He is still unidentified. He had not a chance to escape, yet showed not the slightest hesitation.

"In the face of such determined terrorists the police find it impossible to prevent outrages. The only way officials can escape is never to appear in public.

BOMB SENT TO MILLIONAIRE; CALLS IT JOKE

His Son-in-Law, a Physician, Arrested in Hiding at Home.

LOADED TO KILL A DOZEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Charged with having sent an infernal machine to Morris Glucksman, his millionaire father-in-law, Dr. Julius Adolphi Gottlieb, was arrested last night. That the machine did not go off is said to have been due to the special care taken to make it perfect. The attempt to destroy him, Mr. Glucksman says, was made after he had received threats of his physician son-in-law to send Typhoid and small pox germs into his family. Mr. Glucksman is a retired pawnbroker and supposed to be worth several million dollars. He lives at No. 211 East Sixtieth street.

Dr. Gottlieb was arrested in hiding in his own apartments, at No. 225 West One Hundred and Sixth street. He admits having sent the infernal machine.

The Bureau of Combustibles experts say there was explosive enough in the machine to have killed a dozen persons. When arrested after a tow days' watch by the police Dr. Gottlieb said the whole thing was a joke.

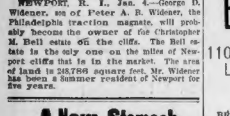
A New Stomach



Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restor Lifeless Organs to Normal Condition.

A TRIAL PACKAGE FREE.

Many a sufferer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and kindred ailments of the digestive organs carries around an absolutely useless stomach—a dead load, and a cesspool for ever-increasing disorders. The muscles are seemingly worn out, the mucous lining has lost its secretive power, and food taken into the stomach lies there and ferments, causing sour eructations, belchings, heartburn, dizziness and other distressing conditions. Many sufferers have given up in despair until they have been induced by some interested friend to try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptics' sure and only hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestines, because they supply just the elements that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestives.

If you are afflicted with any of the symptoms above described, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power—they need help, and there is no more sensible help to be given them than to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by the test of reputable physicians in the United States and Great Britain to have remarkable digestive powers, one grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the condition of your stomach, or how far your disease has progressed, one only of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost powers, the muscles will be strengthened, the glands invigorated, and you will be a new man.

It costs nothing to prove the effectiveness of this cure. Send for a free sample package to-day. F. A. Stuart Co., 78 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

TO ARBITRATE; TEAMSTERS GO BACK TO WORK

110 Brockton Strikers Agree to Leave Demands to Local, Not State Board.

BROCKTON, Jan. 4.—The strike of the hay, grain and coal teamsters, which started Tuesday morning, has ended in an agreement for arbitration.

The union yesterday sent its agent, Harry K. Smith, to Elmer C. Packard, chairman of the Employers' Committee, and asked if the latter were willing to have the matter settled by a local board.

This was the proposition made by the employers Monday. The agent was assured that the employers still stood ready to arbitrate, either through the State Board or a local board. Within a few minutes the union passed a vote to return to work to-day, leaving to local arbitration the settlement of the controversy, the terms of the decision to become operative from the time of returning to work.

The union strongly opposed the proposition to allow the State Board to settle the strike, but a little discussion disclosed a willingness to have a local board make the terms, one member to be chosen by the teamsters, another by the teamsters, and the two to choose the third.

There have been 150 men on strike, including the yard men. The demand made by the teamsters was for an increase in wages from $13.50 to $15 weekly, an eight-hour day as at present, the collection of dues by the employers for the union and several minor items.

TO CHECK GRAB OF WATERWAYS

Some very sensational testimony concerning railroad control of steamer lines in Long Island Sound and the consequent throttling of all competition in the steamer service is said to be ready for publication in a report which Commissioner of Corporations Garfield is soon to submit to Congress concerning the relations of railroads to water lines and canals. Dispatches from Washington to-day say that Mr. Garfield is still pursuing his investigations agreeable to a resolution by Congress, and that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the various Sound lines are being looked into very thoroughly. As Mr. Garfield is soon to become Secretary of the interior, his report as Corporation Commissioner will not be long in forthcoming.

If Massachusetts and Connecticut and Rhode Island it is a well-known fact that the New Haven Railroad dominates Sound water traffic. The expenditure will be worth while, and such as it is has to right dearly for existence.

It is now urged that the government should take over another line of Sound steamboat lines. It is spending enormous sums in the way of river and harbor improvements. Principals in these demands sums have been expended that the people might have boat lines to compete with the railroads, and if the railroads are to control the water lines there is little use in why the government should continue spending money on river and harbor improvements.

SUES LIBRARY BUREAU HEADS FOR $350,000

Breach of contract is the action named in the papers, and it is alleged to be the outgrowth of differences regarding the conduct of the business of the concern which have gradually been estranging one officer from the two others.

The Library Bureau, which has its corporation office at No. 320 Atlantic avenue, and its chief salesroom at No. 43 Federal street, has twenty-nine salesrooms in leading cities in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

RESCUE 20 CHILDREN IN PANIC FROM FIRE

In a fire which destroyed the stable at No. 256 West Second street, South Boston, owned by Fred M. Hall, last night, three horses were burned to death.

Sixteen horses were rescued from the burning building before the roof fell, burying three animals.

SUICIDE WEARS WIFE'S PICTURE

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Hidden among scores of shrubbery in an isolated spot in the woods about Brentwood, L. I., the body of Dr. William M. Wever, a graduate of Yale, who mysteriously escaped three weeks ago from the Brush Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, was discovered last evening hanging to a tree.

Close to his heart was pinned a photograph of his handsome young wife, upon the woods about Brentwood, L. I., the body of Dr. William M. Wever, a graduate of Yale, who mysteriously escaped three weeks ago from the Brush Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, was discovered last evening hanging to a tree.

Close to his heart was pinned a photograph of his handsome young wife, upon whom a week has been trumping about searching for him. Coroner Savage says that he never ended his life more than two weeks ago.

CHILD ALMOST A SOLID SORE

From Skin Disease from Birth Until Six Years Old—Father Spent Fortune on Her Without Benefit—Old Doctor Suggested Cuticura, which Cured Her in Two Months, Leaving

SKIN SOFT AS A BABY'S AND WITHOUT A SCAR

"I have a cousin in Rockingham Co. who once had a skin disease from her birth until she was six years of age. Her father had spent a fortune on her to get her cured and none of the treatments did her any good. Old Dr. G. suggested that he try the Cuticura Remedies which he did. When he commenced to use it the child was almost in a solid scab. He had used it about two months and the child was well. I was there when they commenced to use your Cuticura Remedies. I stayed that week and then returned home and stayed two weeks and then went back and stayed with them two weeks longer and when I went home I could hardly believe she was the same child. Her skin was as soft as a baby's without a scar on it. I have not seen her in seventeen years but I have heard from her and the last time I heard from her she was well. That is where I became acquainted with Cuticura. I hope this may be of some service to you in the future. Mrs. W. P. Ingle, Burlington, N. C., June 16, 1905."

SHAKEUP OF FIREMEN IN EFFECT TO-DAY

Promoted Officers Assigned to New Stations and Others Are Shifted.

One of the biggest transfers of old officers and assignments of newly-promoted officers in the history of the Boston Fire Department went into effect at 40 o'clock to-day by order of Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells. This rearrangement of department officers results from a thorough shakeup administered in the big promotion order of last Monday morning. Ever since the promotions were announced the whole department has been awaiting expectantly the supplementary order giving the future disposition of the men affected.

Commissioner Wells says that the shakeup among the privates of the department will come till next week. He is waiting to receive certain names from the Civil Service Commissioners. The shift among the subordinates is expected to be considerable.

The eight captains transferred to-day are:

Captain Walter M. McLean, Engine 8 to the new Engine 46.
Captain James J. O'Connor, Engine 7 to Engine 45.
Captain Frank J. Jordan from Engine 6 to Engine 18.
Captain Jeremiah F. Gillen from Engine 9 to Engine 7.
Captain Edward J. Conners from Engine Company 46 to Engine 2.
Captain Charles W. Conway, Ladder 13 to Engine 31.
Captain Hallen B. Joy from Engines 29-30 to Engine 41.
Captain Mortimer Cronin from Engine 23 to Engine 17.

Assignments for Promotgd Men.

The ten captains promoted last Monday are assigned to the following stations:

Captain Bartholomew F. Hayes to Chemical 8.
Captain John F. Hines to Engine 9.
Captain Philip A. Grant to Engine 8.
Captain Cornelius J. O'Brien to Engine 25.
Captain James J. Calne to Engines 38-39.
Captain James F. Ryan to Engine 43.
Captain Michael J. Nolan to Ladder 23.
Captain Patrick W. Lanergan to Ladder 14.
Captain Frank A. Sweeney to Chemical Engine 1.
Captain Frank J. Sheeran to Engine 6.

Lieutenants Assigned.

The fifteen new lieutenants are assigned to-day as follows: Michael J. Sullivan, Engine 7; Patrick F. McLeavey, Engine 8; Thomas J. Flynn, Engine 9; James J. Burke, Engine 26; Thomas F. Riley, Engine 29; Peter A. Matthews, Engine 41; James T. Prendergast, Engine 45; William J. Toomey, Chemical Engine 6; Michael F. Hiva, Ladder 1; John McCann, Ladder 3; Hamilton A. McClay, Ladder 12; Henry Krake, Ladder 17. William McCorkle, Ladder 18; Martin A. Kennedy, Engines 38-39; John F. Mooney, Chemical Engine 11.

Lieutenants shifted:

Lieutenant William Talley, from Chemical Engine 6 to Engine 29.
Lieutenant Avery B. Howard, Jr., Chemical 1 to Engine 46.
Lieutenant George Carney from Ladder 16 to Engine 25.
Lieutenant Dennis J. Dacey, from Engines 38-39 to Water Tower 1.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is not really a sickness, but symptoms. It is a symptom that a certain set of nerves is ailing. Not the voluntary nerves that enable you to walk and talk and act—but the AUTOMATIC STOMACH NERVES over which your mind has no control.

I have not room here to explain how these nerves may become unstrung and operate the stomach. How worry breaks them down and causes indigestion. How science wears them out and causes dyspepsia. How neglected may bring on nervousness, heart and other troubles through sympathy. I have not room to explain how these nerves may be reached and strengthened and vitalized and made natural and healthy. I have proven in perfection—now known by physicians and Druggists everywhere—my Dr. Shoop's Restorative. (Tablets or Liquid.) I have not room to explain how this remedy, by restoring the nerve, usually puts a certain end to indigestion, belching, heartburn, insomnia, nervousness, dyspepsia. All of these things are fully explained in the book I will send you free. You need only write me. Do not fail to send for the book. It tells how the solar plexus governs digestion. It explains a hundred other things every one ought to know—for all of us, at some time or other have indigestion. With the book I will send free my Health Tester—an intended passport to good health.

For the free book send the "Health Tester," and write "Book 1" on one line, "Book 2" on another, and "Book 3" on another, according to which book you want. Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Stomach. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets—give full three weeks' treatment. Each form—liquid or tablet—has equal merit. Druggists everywhere.

OUSTED FOR SEEKING TRUTH IN TUCKER CASE---HARRIS

Startling Statement Is Made by Medical Examiner Who Was Removed by Guild.

as too had been studying the matter hard and he also had made the discovery.

"There we were back to first principles and the lower half of the cadaver had been the weapon used. We waited to try the experiment.

"Opportunity was found at the very next autopsy. I tried the knife point upon the costoform cartilage and produced with a single wedge blade the very kind of gaping effect over which we had been puzzled so long and so completely. Then in triumph I cut out the cartilage and quickly exhibited it to Attorney General Parker to satisfy the Commonwealth and to Attorney Vahey to satisfy the defence. Whatever doubt had existed was forever dissipated. Both sides had seen the demonstration and whatever the misfinding that might follow, I was willing to shoulder it. It was all a search for the truth only, so matter what the consequences might be to myself, and I did not hesitate, being willing in the interest of truth to accept all responsibility.

GAVE WRONG PAPER.

"At about this time I was preparing for a trip to Canada. My health had suffered considerably. I did not want to die and leave my conclusions unknown. They had been written.

"Incidentally, in my correspondence with an old Boston newspaper man then in France there had been many references to the Dreyfus case. I confess I had never read the Dreyfus case, but knew something about it, of course. I prepared a story intended for him, a half romance, weaving together the Dreyfus reference and the Tucker matter. Both documents were in my possession.

"These were then two separate documents, one official, in the event that I should die, of which I informed many certain persons; the other for personal correspondence as above mentioned.

"One day Mr. Vahey came and asked to see the official statement. I thought I handed it to him, but I gave him the wrong one. He got the one intended for my friend in Europe—the newspaper man who was full of the Dreyfus matter and had been personally acquainted with Emile Zola.

"I did not notice until the next day that the wrong one had gone into the hands of Mr. Vahey. I telephoned for it several times. It was returned, but before it was returned the Vahey office had made a copy of it and the copy was presented at the Governor's hearing.

"It has been stated that strong pressure has been brought upon the Governor to appoint your successor from the Harvard Medical School?"

Dr. Harris's eye twinkled and he did not reply until the question was repeated.

"It has of course come to me that Harvard College desires the privilege of performing autopsies and in general cutting up bodies in the presence of its medical students. I should not be surprised if Harvard College had its way. That will be better determined when my successor is appointed.

"Frequently the question has been asked, doctor, why you went upon the stand a second time at the trial to verify about a knife wound in the back of the Page murder. Never mind the question, I can answer it, and the replies identical." "In fact, glad you asked me that. It, etc. The penetration of the blade between ribs and cartilages near the spine. I will tell you why. In spite of all the coaching and preparation I was asked a question, wrongly put. I replied according to fact, as I knew what reply would be expected. The reply was truthful as to fact, but not truthful as a response to the question.

QUESTION WRONGLY PUT.

"The mistake was made by the prosecutor in his framing of the question. He should have known better. It made me say the blade passed through where such a blade could not possibly pass. I was dismantled, and later requested to go back upon the stand and have the question put to me right so that my answer would be truthful from every viewpoint. The blade did pass among the bones and ligaments mentioned, but at a point further from the spine, where greater space was offered for the passage of the knife.

"Perhaps I made a mistake in denying myself to newspaper men as I did. But as an official, I thought my first duty was to the Government and so, after the first half unconscious discussion, I refrained from talking. Sometime since I have wished that I had talked unrestrictedly, for by so doing the public would ere this have been conversant with my position. It does not take the public long to digest facts that they deem important.

"There is a rumor in this Tucker case that could be said," he replied, when urged for a further statement. "I shall think it over a few days before I say anything further. Perhaps I shall never go into it again. I am undetermined on the point."

"Harvard College is of considerable influence. How much it will affect in the present instance is at present purely speculative. Some of my friends have indeed stated for a fact that such an end was contemplated. In the same breath they asserted that in many instances protested that there are still a great many people in and about Boston who might object to having their parents, husbands, wives, sons or daughters subjected to autopsy or dissection in the presence of college classes, however instructive the performance might be to the students assembled."

"I am glad you brought up the subject, because if shown that a prosecutor can make a mistake as well as a medical examiner opposing expert could have rendered that particular testimony valueless and perhaps discredited the whole.

"In that case the prosecutor had someone to call his attention to it in time to rectify the mistake. More recently when I made a mistake I found my erstwhile colleagues more ready to have me correct me right. There is a difference of then and now, or perhaps it is a difference in human nature."

GOT IN WRONG BED; ARRESTED FOR BURGLAR

John Bruskie, "Detained at Office," Went Home, Then Was Hauled to Police Station.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—A strange case of mistaken identity was revealed in the Manhattan avenue court, Williamsburg, to-day, by the arraignment of John Bruskie, twenty-three years old, on a charge of burglary. The complainant was James Kelsey, who occupies rooms in the same tenement, No. 10 Ash street, Williamsburg.

Detained "at the office," Bruskie returned to his home early to-day. Fearing to awaken his wife, he removed his shoes and crawled upstairs. Mistaking the second floor for the third, he entered Kelsey's rooms, removed his clothing and crawled into bed.

Instead of the pillow, however, his head collided with that of Kelsey, and with a cry of rage he leaped at the sleeping man.

Awakened by the onslaught, Kelsey believed burglars were in the room, and proceeded to drive them out. With a series of well-directed punches he knocked Bruskie to the ground, and held him until the arrival of a policeman.

"I found him in my room," he said, "He is a burglar, and I want him locked up. I will appear against him later."

"That don't go," said the policeman to the explanations of the unfortunate man. "Of course you will have to come to court, but I guess you will have to explain that to the magistrate. That game is too old." And Bruskie was locked up.

When the case was called, however, Bruskie was identified by his wife, and after explanations had been made the "complainant and defendant" left arm in arm.

MOTHER BUYS BACK CHILD SOLD FOR $10

REMINDER OF SLAVE DAYS IN STORY OF LITTLE GEORGIE MURRAY.

Little George Murray, eight years old and a victim of Wanderlust, is said by his mother to have had the remarkable experience of being sold to an iceman for $10. His mother says she had to pay $14.50 to buy him back.

According to Mrs. Coleman, his mother, he is the last child on record as having been sold like a slave in Massachusetts. To a reporter, after a visit to AMERICAN reporter, after a visit to see little boy and his sister Evelyn, a year her junior, returned home after a runaway adventure, Mrs. Coleman, who lives in a tenement at Plympton Corner, Walpole, made this statement:

"When I was obliged to leave my children's father, he took George away from me, and for a year could not find him anywhere. At last, a few weeks ago, I learned that he was living in a shanty in the woods near Cambridge, where his father was cutting wood. He was fed on bread and butter and water, and was not even given milk.

Sold to an Iceman.

"Before I got to him my little boy had been sold to an iceman for $10. I was almost crazy with grief. I spent days searching for him. When I found him I had to pay $14.50 to buy him back. Think of it! My own boy! I had to buy him.

"When I found him he had hardly any clothing. Although he is eight years old, he was wearing a baby shirt and had on crochet slippers for shoes."

Mrs. Coleman is employed in a rubber works in Walpole, and, like her second husband, has to work away from home during the day. She said:

"I always leave enough at home for the children to eat while I am at the factory and do all I can for them. But my husband and I can't keep the home on his wages, so I have to do my share."

Little George and his sister started forth to see the world. The boy planned the trip. He took a few pieces of clothing and made a little bundle. For provisions, he took some raisins and ordered at a store a passing stranger and a basket of grapes. He had them charged to the account of a prominent citizen, his mother says.

Slept in an Old Shed.

The little wanderers had reached the northern outskirts of Walpole when darkness fell. They slept that night in an old shed, where the little boy made a straw bed for himself and sister. They used her little skirts for coverlids. They were hungry and thirsty, and thought that a neighboring watchdog, which barked and howled during the night, might be the wolf which lay in wait for Little Red Riding Hood.

At dawn there was no loving mother to get breakfast. Little Evelyn did not think of the great, wide world was as nice as home. But George did not care much—only a cry-baby sister was not a good comrade on such a wild adventure. Their mother and stepfather had searched until 1 o'clock in the morning and had gone home in despair. A few hours later the cold and hungry children returned.

"They have gone away before," said Mrs. Coleman, "but this is the first time they ever stayed out all night. It is George's fault. He loves to wander and I can't break him of the habit."

KAISER FEARS FOR HIS LIFE; HAS BIG GUARD

Electoral Campaign and Polish Troubles Alarm His Majesty of Germany.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 4.—Kaiser William is in deadly fear of assassination, and is surrounding himself with a guard as formidable as that by which Czar Nicholas is protected. This is the statement made by the Birmingham Post.

The bitterness caused by the present electoral campaign in Germany and the trouble in Poland, where the government has dealt ruthlessly with Polish nationalists, are responsible for the fears entertained by the German ruler.

In order to insure himself against attack the Kaiser has had the guards about him more than doubled and only in the last few days fifty additional political officers have been established in the palace.

ROBBED OF $125; BROTHER HELD

Police headquarters was notified by the police of Holbrook on New Year's Day that John J. Kelly of that town had been robbed of an overcoat, a suit of clothes, a dress suit case and a gold watch, total value $125, and that Kelly's brother, Edward J., twenty-six years old, a rigger living in South Braintree, was suspected of the theft.

Early to-day Edward J. Kelly, booked as twenty-six years old, rigger, living in South Braintree, was arrested for identification and taken to the Jay street station. Detectives who have been looking for him since Thursday identified the prisoner as the man they wanted.

Beatrice Fairfax Advises the Man Who Contemplates Matrimony to Decide What Sort of Wife He Wants and

CHOOSE BETWEEN THESE TWO GIRLS

AN EXTRAVAGANT, SHIFTLESS, CARELESS WIFE IS A DRAWBACK TO ANY MAN

Use Common Sense When You Think of Proposing

By Beatrice Fairfax

YOUNG man, here are two types of girls. Which kind do you want for a wife?

No matter if you were to meet these two girls late in the afternoon they would be equally smart and neat in appearance, but please take the trouble to notice the difference in their appearance at 9 o'clock in the morning.

One is neat, busy, capable. The other is lazy, untidy and incapable.

When you find yourself grouchy fond of a girl drop in and see her some morning on your way to work or some time when she does not expect to see you.

If you find her with her hair in curlpapers, reading a novel, take my advice and let the affair go no further, for she is not the wife for any hard-working, ambitious young man.

She is the kind who lets her mother get up and get the breakfast while she lies in bed. She will be extravagant and slovenly all her life and a handicap to the man unfortunate enough to marry her.

But if on calling in the morning you find a bright-faced, neat, busy young woman, lose no time in securing her for a life companion. "Her price is above rubies" and she will make you an excellent wife.

It is easy for a girl to be neat and smart looking in the evening, when she is ready to receive callers. She scurries about and rushes to get through her day's work in time to be dressed for callers, but the girl who does not make a practice of getting her work done early in the day and who is not dressed and ready to receive callers when they arrive is not the girl for a man to marry.

Any girl can be neat and attractive looking in the evening, when she has had all day to rest and dress, but the girl who is busy all day and is ready to receive callers when they arrive is the girl who is the ideal wife.

Don't be deceived by a girl who is dressed in her best clothes when you call in the morning. Ask yourself if she looks as though she had been busy all day, and if she has not been busy all day she is not the girl you want for a

BRAIN GONE, KILLS SELF

Insanity Fear Drove Teacher to Suicide

Haunting Dread of Becoming Imbecile Led Harvard Instructor to End Life.

Brilliant Scholar's Mind Shattered by Protracted Study and Overwork.

Despairing because his brilliant mind had failed him, Professor Walter D. Swan, Harvard University instructor, shot himself and died. Pride in his intellect was so great that life was not worth living with mental faculties impaired.

For months the brilliant teacher had been haunted by the thought that he would become an imbecile. His nervous system had been shattered by protracted study, and when he opened his books the pages he loved to well were obscured by hallucinations.

"My brain is gone—I cannot live. These were his only intelligible words upon the slip of paper found in a pocket while he was dying.

"My husband," Mrs. Swan told a physician in the Waltham Hospital, "left home in the morning, saying he was going to consult a doctor in regard to a nervous trouble. He had been afflicted by it for some time."

Some of his friends think he may have visited some specialist and been told that his condition was as serious as he himself feared.

Wednesday afternoon he was seen wandering about Belmont. His face was troubled and his manner distracted. He went into the grounds of Bartholomew Mosel and shot himself in the breast. He was buried to the hospital when found. His dying words dispelled the rumors of foul play which spread like wild fire when he was found bleeding on the damp ground.

"There is no doubt but that Mr. Swan inflicted the fatal wound in the chest which caused death," said Medical Examiner George L. West of Newton, after viewing the body. It was taken to the home of the professor's father on Everett street, Cambridge. It was a house of gloom. Mr. Swan's widow, his two children and his parents are distracted with grief.

WALTER D. SWAN

INSTRUCTOR WHO SHOT SELF.

OLD ASSOCIATE OF GOULD SUED FOR $100,000

William Belden Acused of Fraud in Connection with Brother's Will.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—William Belden, at the time the Wall street associate of Jay Gould and James Fisk, and whom later the vagaries of fate forced to the necessity of washing and ironing his own shirts, is named as defendant in a suit to be tried in [illegible] court next week, brought by [illegible] Belden, a son of the late [illegible]. The suit is for $100,000, which it is alleged, William Belden retained from his brother Henry's estate by fraudulent means.

Since the famous "Black Friday" of Wall street William Belden has experienced a romantic career. Thirty years ago he was considered in financial circles as on equal footing with Gould and Fisk. In fact, his tremendous faith in himself led him to believe he was even greater than the former, with the result that the two men quarreled and Belden was crushed in a deal of Erie stock.

Henry Belden went violently insane shortly after a water company transaction in which the brother and Patrick H. Flynn, the contractor, figured. He was confined as an asylum and died six months later without having regained his sanity. William retained control of the brother's share of the concern.

Two years later, when Henry Belden, Jr., another son of the dead contractor, took out administration papers and demanded an accounting of the estate, William Belden, the uncle, produced a will by this William Belden, Charles D. Belden, another brother, and Henry Belden, Jr., were named, not only as beneficiaries, but also as sole executors.

This will, it is alleged, was drawn up by and at the suggestion of Charles Donohue, the former counsel of William Belden.

In the complaint, drawn up by Lawyer Charles L. Craig of No. 22 William street, the son alleges that the signing of the will, if it was signed by his father, was procured by fraud and undue influence.

ELEANORA DUSE HAS PNEUMONIA

GENOA, Jan. 4.—Mme. Eleanor Duse, the famous actress, is critically ill of pneumonia. While hope for her recovery is entertained by the physicians in charge, her friends are apprehensive. Mme. Duse has not been in good health for some time, and when she caught a heavy cold recently it quickly developed into pneumonia.

Eleanora Duse is Italy's foremost tragedienne. Among her great successes have been "La Dame aux Camelias," "La Gioconda" and "Fedora," as well as her great part of Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana."

She has several times appeared in the great American cities and her wonderful exhibition of dramatic power and her unconventional conception of these and other great roles were fully worthy of her great European reputation.

The turning point in her artistic career is said to have been her acquaintance with Gabriele D'Annunzio. He wrote for her "La Gioconda," and dedicated it to "Eleonora Duse of the beautiful hand." The friendship of the couple is said to have been broken some years ago.

NEW NEBRASKA GOVERNOR.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 4.—George L. Sheldon was yesterday inaugurated Governor of Nebraska.

Shot the Apple From His Head.

When William Tell was sentenced by Gessler, a governor of Switzerland, to shoot an apple from the head of his son, he successfully executed the feat to the consternation and joy of the multitude. It was the marksman's faith in his skill that enabled his hands and nerves and enabled him to perform such an extraordinary act. Those who have used Dr. Bichhart's Vegetable Compound in like ailments have implicit faith that it will prevent its allotted task. This is well placed confidence and was justified last year by relief being granted to 12,500,000 afflicted who used this famous remedy in good faith. It is for the cure of ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood, sixty days' treatment, $1.00. All Druggists.

BARRY BLOCKS CONFIRMATION BY THE COUNCIL

Councilor Edward F. Barry of South Boston flung a firebrand into the first meeting of the executive council of 1907 yesterday afternoon by holding up the confirmation of Insurance Commissioner Frederick L. Cutting of Wellesley, and incidentally all of the other appointments of Governor Guild.

Mr. Barry is the only Democrat in the Council of eight members. He last came out with an advertisement asking for information about appointments yesterday, and also as to future appointments.

Together with the holding up of the Cutting appointment comes the hint from friends of Mr. Barry that there will next be a move for open sessions.

Mr. Barry succeeds Thomas J. Grady, who yesterday took his seat in the House, after the old council had unanimously consented to the removal by the Governor of Medical Examiner Harris. Mr. Barry said he would not have stood with the Governor on this vote.

When the objection was raised by Mr. Barry another councilor asked if there was no way that the council could confirm the appointments under the rules. Governor Guild said that the objection ended the matter for the time being.

BLIND COUPLE PART IN COURT

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—To the surprise of her husband, Mrs. Jesse Dodds took the stand in court today and said that she was not being held a prisoner by her mother and did not care to return to Dodds. Both the husband and wife are blind.

Dodds, a piano tuner, had applied for a writ of habeas corpus.

"We are devoted to each other," the blind man asserted.

GUILD APPOINTS FERNALD JUDGE

B. Martin Fernald, of Melrose, a prominent lawyer, was appointed associate justice of the First Middlesex District Court by Governor Guild at his inauguration yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Judge Utley, of Medford, who died Christmas day.

Mr. Fernald has for years been connected with the law firm of Wiggin & Fernald, 28 State street, Boston.

He was born at Great Falls, N. H., in 1841. He graduated from Harvard in 1870 and studied law in the office of the late Judge Joseph P. Wiggin.

Mr. Fernald was taken in partnership in 1875. The same year he married Miss Grace Fuller of Boston.

In 1882 and 1883 he was elected to the Legislature, and served in the Senate during the years 1892 and 1893.

OPEN WAR ON OIL TRUST MONOPOLY IN BAY STATE

LEGISLATIVE BILL CALLS FOR JAIL PENALTY FOR UNJUST DISCRIMINATION.

By the introduction of a bill to prevent unjust discrimination in this State, introduced in the House by Representative Ingman W. Griswold of Greenfield, the people of Massachusetts begin a battle against the monopoly of the Standard Oil Company.

The bill makes discrimination in charges punishable by a fine up to $5,000, or by imprisonment for a year, or both, and stops the offenders from doing business in Massachusetts until double the amount of fine has been deposited with the treasurer as security against future offenses. The Attorney-General and the district attorneys are given the responsibility of beginning prosecutions.

The introduction of the bill was prophesied some months ago by Thomas L. Higgen of the independent oil company that has successfully transacted business in this State for a number of years in the face of ruinous rate cutting by the Standard Oil Company.

SALVATIONIST ACCUSES AID

LOWELL, Jan. 4.—Captain A. E. Armstrong of the Salvation Army has ordered Weston R. Waterman, connected with the local organization for twenty years, to take off his uniform until charges against him can be investigated.

Captain Armstrong accused Waterman of taking money from the fund for the free dinner given to the city's poor.

PURE DRUGS ACT

June 30, 1906

In Effect January 1, 1907

A GOOD LAW

We endorse the Pure Drug Law, because we have always believed in its principles, and because it means that the American people will find the strong arm of the Government protecting them from RANK FAKES, IMITATIONS AND SUBSTITUTES made of adulterated, impure, worthless and even dangerous drugs.

This sort of thing has been an imposition, fraud and crime against the People, as well as against the responsible manufacturers of honest, reliable remedies, and it was high time for it to be stopped. Misrepresentation and substitution of "something just as good" will now be done away with.

The principles of the Food and Drugs Act have been always favored by conscientious and honorable manufacturers, who recognized that Purity and Quality alone could permanently secure the favor of the nation.

So the makers of Cascarets Candy Cathartic recognized the great principles of PURITY, QUALITY and MEDICINAL MERIT when the first tablet was made, over eleven years ago, and have adhered to them ever since.

Cascarets stand alone on their record, of having gained in that short period of time the friendship, confidence and patronage of millions of people, who are now buying Cascarets at the rate of over a MILLION BOXES A MONTH,—the largest sale of any Bowel Medicine in all the world.

We endorse the Pure Drug Law.

It suits us, because we have always stood before our friends unafraid and clear of conscience, made our contracts good to every one, and in the conduct of our business, had the good fortune to help hundreds of thousands of our fellow-citizens back to health and life.

We have no reason to hesitate, and so we do not hesitate, to recommend Cascarets to all sufferers from Constipation and all complications arising therefrom. Also any other diseases of the food-canal. We are advertised by our loving friends and whenever the American people pass judgment in favor of an article after over ten years of investigation, trial and test,—their verdict speaks for itself.

The greatest merit of Cascarets, however, is that of being a positive and reliable preventive of disease. The most important function of the human body is to keep its digestive channels and passages, with over thirty-six feet of bowels, strictly clean and disinfected, so that natural operations can take place in a natural manner, and the growth and activity of disease germs can be prevented.

A Cascaret at night before "turning in" will keep your Bowels regular, and your whole digestive canal wholesome, pure and normally active.

No matter what you have been taking, buy a little 10c. box TODAY at your own druggist, and let the results tell their own story. It means a lot of health and comfort in store for you. 703

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

BERGER MAY MEET O'BRIEN

DID DREAD OF THIS BLACK CYCLONE MAKE JEFF DRAW COLOR LINE

Special to the Boston American.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—Philadelphia Jack O'Brien is anxious to take advantage of the chance in the articles for his bout with Battle which permits him to fight one battle before the bouts date.

Yesterday afternoon the Philadelphian sent the following telegram to Mcreary:

"Kindly grant me a chance next month to oppose Sammy Berger in an annual affair for individual supremacy and lay limited finance of Atlantis. I wish to leave him our relative positions therein."

McCarey is considering the proposition and may show the two men, but, considering the showing made by Kaufman with Gardner and the knockout which Kaufman has over Berger, men must have dropped a lemon seed somewhere for first choice.

Either that battle in Philadelphia, after which the papers boosted Berger, was not up to O'Brien's standard, or there is some other "nigger in the woodpile."

Remember that the day O'Brien obtained Burns's consent to fight one battle before the Sesta O'Brien met Burns's arguments against the arrangement with the statement: "Leave it to me. I will pick out the man I want to pick; then figure the case out for yourself, gentlemen.

JIMMY GARDNER WOULDN'T BOX

DENVER, Col., Jan. 4.—Jimmy Gardner refused to face Harry Lewis for their twenty-round bout here to-night.

Lewis is matched to meet Mike (Twin) Sullivan here on January 22.

RICARD WANTS 'CORBETT' TO BOX BRITT

STRATFORD, C., Jan. 4.—Young Corbett, who is now mixing matters in the ring-round match with Harlem Tommy Murphy at the National Athletic Club of Philadelphia on January 14, has received a letter from Tex Rickard, the famous promoter of Goldfield, Nev., inquiring the price of a $20,000 purse for a finish fight with Jimmy Britt at the ranch town in the early spring.

Rickard had originally made this offer to Young Corbett and Terry McGovern, when the two were matched for their second go at Philadelphia. When McGovern was declared incapable of fighting, however, Rickard said that the offer would stand for Young Corbett, providing he defeated any other down and outer in the meantime.

Harry Foltz, Corbett's manager, then arranged for the fight with Harlem Tommy Murphy, and on the outcome of this battle depends the appearce of Young Corbett in the ring with Jimmy Britt at Goldfield. These two fighters are old rivals and have already faced each other, Britt getting the better of the argument only by virtue of a new decision by a referee, which will be never forgotten in and is waiting his chance to make it. He thinks he can do it now and is doing all his energy to getting in such shape for his fight with Murphy as to make victory certain.

In the letter to Corbett, Rickard says he is awaiting the end of the fight in Philadelphia, and if Corbett is designed the victor he will immediately start for the coast to match with Britt.

Corbett's work has been brilliant, more than the Denver boy has yet shown. After an unusually long spar over the ropes in the morning and plunge into the river he boxed in the afternoon with the speed, strength and finesse that marked his championship day.

NEVADA CLUBS WILL GET GANS TO BOX O'BRIEN

TONOPAH, Nev., Jan. 4.—Manager Billy Riley of the Casino Athletic Club, has staged the Herman-Gans fight, is out with an offer of a purse of $40,000 for the chance to fight Jack O'Brien here July 4. The news that Riley has made this extraordinary offer created a sensation among the sporting men still gathered here after his big fight. At first the story was scored as ridiculous, but it appears it is genuine, and that Riley is confident that he can whip O'Brien, while O'Brien says little beyond admitting the truth of the report.

The only stumbling block is the matter of weights. Gans has announced that he will fight O'Brien, provided the latter weighs in at 154 pounds two hours before the fight. O'Brien, however, is of the opinion that the weighing in should take place six hours before the fight. He says he would probably take on half a dozen pounds before the battle. That would put the pay cause O'Brien to accept. It is expected that either Corbett or Gans will go to this match, and it is likely that the latter will be brought up later.

TO TAKE PIRATES TO LICK SPRINGS

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—Fred Clarke, manager of the Pittsburg ball team, has announced that he will take the Pirates to French Lick Springs, Ind., for one week, beginning March 1. Just before that, when three weeks will be spent.

The trip to French Lick Springs that the Pirates National League team will make is one of the features of the season with the exception of the one week will not interfere in the least with the Boston plans.

Unglaub Traded for Stahl; Fans Overlook Californian

GRAHAM TO PLAY AGAIN

While the general list of players which will make up the Boston Americans next season has received attention from the fans there has been one player overlooked who may prove of valuable service to the team next season.

It is Charles Graham, the California backstop, who played a few games last year and then hiked out to the coast and refused to come back.

Sickness in his family and subsequently the earthquake coming were the causes of his not returning to the club though his absence was severely felt and made considerable difference in the team's showing.

It is confidently expected by the management of the club that Graham will return to the team, which will be good news to the baseball patrons, who could not but help to see the needs of the team in his disastrous fight in the concluding games on the schedule.

Graham With Fresno.

Graham as present is playing with the Fresno team on the coast, and President John I. Taylor, who is now in the vicinity, will make it a point to see Graham and induce him to return, as he is still under reserve by the locals.

When Graham went South for the Spring practice last year his playing startled the easterners, and when the team played its first games in New York it was Graham who came in for a lot of favorable comment for some grand backstopping.

President Taylor is expected to leave the coast on January 6, and nothing will be done in the business of the club till his arrives at headquarters, even sending out the players' contracts being withheld till he gets back.

Secretary McBreen says that all the players reserved by the club will go to Arkansas, notwithstanding any rumors to the contrary.

It begins to look now as though Jake Stahl had been landed. President John I. Taylor was quoted in the West as saying that he would have Jake before the season opened, but it has been rather dubious from the fact that none of the players whom Boston was willing to exchange for Stahl was acceptable to Carlton, the new Washington magnate. Boston has gotten around that now.

Boston Releases Unglaub.

Bob Unglaub, who is playing with the Williamsport team of the outlaw league, is on the reserve list of the Boston team. Boston is to release Unglaub to Washington and Washington is to give Jake Stahl in return.

It is possible that Bill Sweeney, now with the Chicago Cubs, will wear the uniform of the Boston Nationals this year. Tenney has been getting a line on Sweeney for some time and he believes that the former Holy Cross star is better than he has been for a year. Sweeney thinks so, too. No deal has yet been made, but there is a good prospect of one going through. Sweeney is a Toledo product, and when taken by the Cubs was playing with the Pacific Coast League.

SALEM TO JOIN N. E. CIRCUIT NEXT SEASON

SALEM, Jan. 4.—While there was no mention made at the annual meting of the New England League in Boston Wednesday about transfers, it is reasonable sure that Salem will be represented in the circuit the coming season. T. R. Madden, the well-known Beverly manager, and John J. Carney, last year with Sioux City, have joined forces and made a proposition for the Haverhill franchise. If this is obtained the team will be transferred to this city and located on the Bridge Street Grounds, of which Madden has a lease. Carney is a Salem boy and has seen service in many different leagues. Madden has managed a successful team in Beverly for several seasons, having such men as Dave Shea, Tom Stafford, Matthews, Leo Hafford and others.

GOV. GUILD'S INAUGURAL PRESAGES LEGISLATION CONCERNING MOTORISTS

By J. C. Kerrison.

Governor Guild in his inaugural rather presaged some of the legislation which may be expected on automobile matters during the present sitting of the Legislature. His recommendation that licenses to operate motor vehicles should not be granted until after the applicant first passing an examination as to their proficiency, is something which has been talked of in the past, but never attempted; mainly because the establishment of such a board of examiners as would be necessary has not been forthcoming. Still the tendency seems towards the establishment of such a board were offered it would carry with it the means to reimburse the members of the said board for service.

Such a board of examiners would necessarily be large and expensive, as it would be impossible for every applicant in the State to undergo his examination in or around Boston. The board should have a member from almost every town and city in the Commonwealth, and in a measure would resemble the present extensive and unlimited inefficient board of supervisors now in existence under the laws of New Jersey. Its duties would, however, be different from that covered by the New Jersey commission. The automobile agents and agents would not of course be in harmony with such a condition. The great est hardship it would work upon them would be that of having to teach their purchasers more efficiently and thoroughly the art of manipulation of a motor car. One hundred and fifty miles of tutelage would not be all that is necessary to secure a permit to operate a motor vehicle. How even that will work itself out.

The Governor favors the annual taxation of motor vehicles on the basis of horse power as suggested by Chairman McClintock of the Highway Commission to the recent committee on taxation. This is rather a difficult proposition if it is to be done on the basis of actual horse rather than rated horse power. At the present day many of the leading manufactures, like their brethren in Europe, rather underrate horse power. Several glaring instances are seen every day where a car is rated at twenty-four when it really develops forty-eight horse power. Still all those things will be worked out in time. Not, however, before it is fully realized that the motor vehicle has become the most taxed thing in existence, having a tax on it, a local tax, being forced to give the right of way to everything, and then having to pay a license and a license fee for the operation of his own private vehicle.

As to horse-drawn vehicles and pedestrians having the right of way over motor vehicles on the cross roads, no fair-minded motorist would object to that; such a thing would hardly seem to call for the enactment of special legislation.

F. W. Maguire of the J. W. Maguire Co. returned from Buffalo yesterday, bringing with him the Pierce Arrow 38, a handsome and effective machine. The car is a masterpiece of constructive ability and its excellent points are only in keeping with those of the models that have preceded this latest. Mr. Maguire says they are doing great things in Buffalo. The plant is working night and day to keep up with the demand, while the new plant is rapidly reaching a state of completion.

Another car which reached this city yesterday was the Pope-Toledo Type XV., which is the very acme of motor perfection of fifty-horse power. The axles are of chrome nickel steel beam sections, recognized as the one best thing for axles, while the engine itself contains all the requirements of a first-class mechanical plant. The car is finished in rather an attractive manner and drew forth many commendation from those who visited the Dodge Motor Vehicle Co. on Columbus avenue during the afternoon.

What promises to be one of the most interesting exhibits at the Garden Show will be the two booths of racing cars, all of which attracted so much attention at the last Vanderbilt race at Long Island. Through the efforts of the Importers' Salon, Inc., the foreign booth will be well filled with the winning Darracq, Fiat, Clement-Bayard and DeDietrich, as the American booth Tracy's locomobile, with LeBlon's Thomas, Lyttle's Pope-Toledo, the Apperson and Matheson can be leisurely inspected. Through the courtesy of the Darracq Company a feature of the foreign booth will be the exhibition of the Vanderbilt cup, the trophy which has been the incentive for so many speed contests. It will be the first time that the cup has been on public exhibition at an automobile show and it will undoubtedly attract considerable attention.

DORCHESTER DRIVING CLUB PROSPECTS THE BEST

Every indication points to the present year proving the best since the inception of the Dorchester Driving Club. There is a general feeling among the members that by the time the matinee season opens in April many changes will have been made in the speedway in the Franklin Field.

The present racing course is to be lengthened in the vicinity of two hundred feet, and a return drive completed along side of the speedway, according to the way matters look now. This will permit of the horses getting a better start from the speedway in place of opposite, as they have been obliged to do in the past, the finish being where the start has always been.

At the finish post a grand stand is to be constructed, and a judges' stand, with plenty of room in one and for the reporters, the latter persons being far enough removed not to bother the officials. The complete blue print plans have just been finished, and show at a glance what wonderful improvements the supervising board have in mind in the future of the speedway sport of the Dorchester Driving Club.

Next Monday evening comes the annual election of officers for the ensuing year. It was a surprise to many of the members when M. M. Drummond and M. J. Norris had their names withdrawn from the ballot. In the case of the former he deserves a clean field for E. O. Haddock for the first vice-presidency he having no opposition. Mr. Nevins was up for one of the directors of the organization.

Secretary George A. Greenwood of the Dorchester Club has this week joined the Metropolitan Driving Club, which rather amazed many of his closest friends, but he says that all of the driving clubs need encouragement through gaining new members.

SMITH WON FROM CHAMBERS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 4.—Sammy Smith was entitled to the decision in the wind-up at the Broadway A. C. last night by beating Eddie Chambers in six hard rounds. Smith's superb ring generalship and his cleverness were too much for Chambers in the last two rounds, and he had the Fairmount boy guessing. Smith used his long left jabs to advantage in the six rounds, and at times Chambers was completely bewildered.

RACES AT PARK RINK TONIGHT

To-night there will be one of the big fastest and most exciting races ever held in Boston. The Park Square Rink will run a five-mile professional race with five of the flashers of the six-day race in addition to the regular races there will be a two-mile skate boy's contest. Owing to the rivalry between Merritt and Hamilton the professional race promises to be one of exceptional interest. Merritt is the second man to cross the tape in the six-day race, and is a Canadian, while Hamilton, the winner of the six-day race, is a Boston favorite.

BALLOON RACE SET AT OCT. 19

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Cortlandt Field Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America, announced yesterday afternoon in New York last night from St. Louis that Oct. 19 has been selected as the day for the international cup balloon race. The start will be made from St. Louis, where it has been demonstrated by tests that gas of the best quality is to be had in practically unlimited quantities.

Oct. 19 falls on a Saturday, in the fall of the moon. If weather conditions are unfavorable on that day the start will be postponed until Sunday, Oct. 20.

It has been decided to extend the limit for entries for the race from Feb. 1 to March 1.

KENNEY HAS NEW MANAGER

Frank Kenney, the crack lightweight from Lawrence, came to the BOSTON AMERICAN yesterday to announce that he had changed managers and was now under the directorship of Edward N. Howard of Lawrence, who will do his business for him in the future instead of Martin Flaherty, who Kenney claims double-crossed him in the bout with Young Duncan recently at Haverhill.

Kenney is now getting in condition for a bout with Jimmy Briggs at Lowell on January 18. He said that he easily beat Briggs in the last meeting and expected to win decisively in the coming bout.

YALE MEN WRATHY AT HARVARD

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 4.—More protest about the selection of officials for the Yale-Harvard football game November 29 has been started by the enlarged account in the Harvard Bulletin of the manner in which they were chosen. Yale coaches to-day read the account with s[corn] and chides.

Although some will be unmind[ful] they may use such points of the [case] most. They insist that it was Yale instead of Harvard that was insistent in hurry in choosing the officials, beginning with early Summer, and they state that Harvard balked at every attempt to choose a set. They say that Yale h[as] drawn a list of fifteen of the leading [of]ficials and referees of the country, and that her position all along was that if Harvard would pick any four of these Yale would be satisfied.

Yale balked at first against E. K. Hall of Dartmouth, a Boston lawyer, who is known to be a strong personal friend of Head Coach Bill Reid of Harvard, against Bill Edwards of Princeton, which Yale regards as unsatisfactory on general principles. At one time Yale offered to take any officials of the list of officials named by the central board, but Harvard refused.

All the names Yale had on her list of fifteen were on the general list recommended by the central board for picking officials for college games, it is stated. Harvard persisted in demanding Hall and Edwards, and Yale was forced to withdraw them or have Harvard cancel the game.

LYNN KENNEL SHOW JUDGE

For the second annual show of the Lynn Kennel Club, January 24 and 25, the following judges have been appointed: W. Sinclair of Boston, for the Pomeranian, bulldog, Joseph M. Dale of Brooklyn, N. Y., for Boston terriers, and George E. Thomas of Hamilton, Mass., for all other breeds.

The club has set aside $100 to be divided as cash specials in many classes, which is supplemented by generous offers in medals

FINE BILLS AT THEATRES AND COMING

Cohan and Bellew Leave This Week—Lulu Glaser Opens Engagement Monday.

BEN HUR" TO RETURN

A better company of Japanese jugglers and acrobats than the Kitamura Troupe at Keith's this week has never been seen in Boston. The engagement which is next Monday evening will be for the benefit of the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children.

Kyrle Bellew's stay at the Park Theatre in "Brigadier Gerard" is limited to two more weeks, as he will close with the conclusion of his present engagement in New York. He is under contract to appear there as the star of a new production in three weeks, when Theodore Roberts' engagement will be his farewell to the Hub in the romantic comedy of the days of Napoleon.

Drew at His Best.

John Drew and "His House in Order" is the talk of the town at the Hollis Street Theatre. The impression created by this popular actor in this new Pinero play is that it shows his finest work, and nobody is surprised that it ran in New York during the first of September until Christmas.

All this week there has been a lively demand at the box office of the Park Theatre for "Ben Hur." And it is very evident that Lulu Glaser will have a royal welcome as a star when she opens next Monday. It will be her first appearance here as a comedienne in anything but grand opera.

The Standard plays will hold the boards at Colonial Theatre next week and the week after, and two great favorites from England will be seen at the Boston Theatre, R. Irving Hone son of the distinguished tragedian, and Dorothea Baird. The first week will be devoted to two strikingly contrasted pieces, "Hamlet" and "Manfred."

"Caesar and Cleopatra."

Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott will be the first newcomers of the new year to the Hollis. They will appear in the Bernard Shaw "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Janice Meredith is receiving the patronage of enthusiastic audiences at the Castle Square this week, its spirited scenes going rapidly, and the same being piloted to the utmost. Next week Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will hold the Castle Square stage.

It is interesting to watch the children as they troop into the Bijou Theatre these afternoons and to see by that to see their little faces when they come out from spending a couple of hours in the company of Mother Goose children and other mythical characters who are a part of "Jack and the Beanstalk." Next week it will be "Miss Sister."

At the Majestic Theatre Madame Bertha Kalich is bringing to a close her engagement in Boston on Monday next. During this time will Boston see so wonderful an exhibition of individual acting and emotion as that which this company has given under Mr. Blaney's direction. There will be a matinee on Saturday.

"Ben Hur" Coming.

That the Bostern-Marlowe engagement at the Tremont Theatre has been a success in fiction in prices, compared with those sorrowful accounts of these two [illegible] extraordinary patronage [illegible] ever, quests all calculations, and establishes a record hard to equal. The play next week are "Jeanne d'Arc" on Monday and Wednesday nights; "Romeo and Juliet" on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday night, and "Much Ado About Nothing" on Saturday afternoon and "The Merchant of Venice" Saturday night.

Four hundred people and twenty horses are a prominent for the Boston Theatre production of "Ben Hur," that impressive and artistically religious romance, the stage version of which will open next Monday. The engagement will continue for the week following.

Reigns, the physical culture marvel, presents a unique act with Rose Sydell's London Belles company at the Dudley Theatre this week. The burlesque, "The Prince of Pilsen," which introduces Miss Sydell at her specific organization, is one of the best skits in the burlesque field.

Hogan as "Rufus Rastus."

"The Unblenched American," Ernest Hogan, is making more than "good" at the Globe this week. With his big company of real colored folks he succeeds in making "Rufus Rastus" about as lively a musical fun show as has been seen in Boston for many a day.

The successful three weeks' engagement of "Coming Thro' the Rye," at the Tremont Theatre is expected to have a close Saturday night next. This excellent performance has been witnessed by large audiences of large audiences the entire.

The song recital by Mme. Nordica in Symphony Hall on Thursday afternoon promises to be one of the brilliant of the season. Charles Anthony, pianist, will be the assisting artist.

Whitney Tew's song recital at Jordan Hall next Wednesday afternoon will afford a hearing of this favorite singer in a very interesting program.

James T. Powers Next Week.

Three notable piano recitals are announced by Manager Mudgett for next week. On Monday afternoon Gabrilowitsch, the Russian pianist, plays at Jordan Hall; on Thursday afternoon Mme. Schumann-Heink gives her only recital this season at Siebert Hall, and next Saturday afternoon, January 12, Mlle. Germaine Schnitzer gives her second recital at that hall.

Benjamin Chapin, who has been so successful in his impersonations of Abraham Lincoln, will make one of his rare dramatic attractions at the Orpheum next week. His work on Monday will be seen in a renewed version of Mr. Chapin's play, "Lincoln," more deals with scenes and happenings in the life of the martyred President.

During the next fortnight there will be a unique musical play in Boston, and that at the Majestic Theatre, where James T. Powers will appear in "Jerry from Jerusalem" on Monday evening next. The week went on sale this morning. Regular matinees will be on Thursday and Saturday.

WATCH THE CAMERA MAN; HE'S APT TO GET YOU

He Catches One Woman Shopper Every Weekday in the Retail District.

The Original of This Snapshot Will Receive a Prize of $2.

JUST like finding money, isn't it? Easiest way in the world to win $2, isn't it? Why it's the plainest proposition ever made.

Here it is in a nutshell. The BOSTON AMERICAN Camera Man circulates every day about noontime in the vicinity of stores patronized by readers of this newspaper. He takes one snapshot of a woman shopper daily.

When the picture is printed the original of the photograph calls, identifies the snapshot and receives a reward of $2 for her trouble. Any woman who can't call can send a photograph of herself, and if she's "it" she gets a check by return mail. Anything simpler?

Keep your eye on the Camera Man. He may catch you any day.

Two Little Railroad Wrecks

Do They Make You THINK, Readers? We Hope So

There is nothing NEW in this. It is the usual story of human lives sacrificed to HUMAN ENTERPRISE and THE RIGHT OF THE DOLLAR.

One wreck is on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. More than fifty are dead—"mainly women and children, which made it hard to identify them, as they had no business cards in their pockets."

The dead were very thoroughly ground up. It was difficult to get various arms and legs and heads and bodies sorted out so as to form a complete corpse for the satisfaction of the bereaved and irritated relatives.

The second wreck is on the Rock Island Railroad and fifty more are added to the death list.

Readers, do you know WHY those women and children and men are dead, ground to pieces?

It is because this country—that is to say, THE MONEY THAT RULES IT—puts profit above human life, dividends above human beings.

You are perhaps tired of reading our comments on railroad murders. We do not blame you—we are a little tired of writing them.

But we shall write these comments to-day and many days, and perhaps many YEARS hereafter.

It took a great deal of writing and talking to wipe out slavery, the right of one man to OWN another's life. It will take a great deal of writing and talking to wipe out that peculiar property right which gives the man the right TO TAKE ANOTHER'S LIFE.

We shan't worry you with fifteen arguments in connection with these shameful murders of women and children by railroad corporations. We call your attention to only TWO.

Here is the first one:

In the Baltimore & Ohio wreck a light engine and a light train of EMPTY cars ran into a passenger train filled with human beings. They were in the railroad's estimation CHEAP human beings, not the very prosperous kind, and they were riding in the ordinary "day coaches." Day coaches, you know, are matchboxes that smash like pasteboard when anything hits them.

If those had been WELL-BUILT CARS, cars as well built as the ordinary Pullmans, there would have been little and probably NO LOSS OF LIFE. There would have been a shaking up. But WELL-BUILT CARS WOULD NOT CRUSH LIKE EGGSHELLS.

The dispatch tells us that the engine which ran into the train went through the flimsy cars, smashing them like paper, WITHOUT DAMAGING THE ENGINE, INJURING THE COWCATCHER OR THE ENGINEER OR FIREMAN.

Do you know WHY the cars in which those people were killed were like matchboxes?

It is because the difference between the cost of a good car and the cost of a cheap car GOES INTO THE POCKETS OF THE MEN THAT OWN THE RAILROADS. That difference helps to pay dividends on THE MILLIONS OF WATERED STOCK that represent and create the fortunes of the hundred-time millionaires.

Of course, with government ownership we should have some STEALING, although the people would soon begin to vote wisely and the railroads would soon be well managed.

But under government ownership NO ONE WOULD BE INTERESTED IN BUILDING CHEAP, FLIMSY PASSENGER CARS. On the contrary, the profit of the grafters would come from the cost of building the cars, AND IT WOULD BE TO THEIR INTEREST TO BUILD THE CARS STRONG AND EXPENSIVE. The people would be robbed of some money, BUT THEIR LIVES WOULD BE SAVED.

Now they are robbed of their money AND OF THEIR LIVES AT THE SAME TIME. Government ownership would be SOME improvement, wouldn't it?

One other point:

The engineer of the train that ran into the people and killed them says that when his train entered the block at North Takoma the track was clear. The operator declares that the block was not clear, that "he gave the train the red light."

What does that mean? It means that it is cheaper for this privately owned railroad to kill women and children than to put in a block system making it ABSOLUTELY IMPOSSIBLE FOR ONE TRAIN TO RUN INTO ANOTHER.

Switzerland, dear readers, is a cheap little country. Mountains, glaciers, rocks, hotels, tourists, AND HONESTY are about all it possesses.

Switzerland is, speaking from the Rockefeller point of view, a wretched little place.

But in Switzerland THE GOVERNMENT—THAT IS TO SAY, THE PEOPLE—OWNS THE RAILROADS AND OPERATES THEM.

In Switzerland they not only have the block signal, but the latest, most perfect automatic system. By this arrangement, when the Baltimore & Ohio engine started to run into the block containing the wretched passengers murdered on Sunday, THE ENGINE WOULD HAVE STOPPED OF ITS OWN ACCORD.

The Swiss PEOPLE run their railroads. AND, NATURALLY, THEY PUT THEIR OWN LIVES ABOVE DIVIDENDS. They arrange their roads so that when an engine tries to run into a section of track containing another train THE AIRBRAKES ON THAT ENGINE ARE SET AUTOMATICALLY, and even if the engineer were sound asleep or dead at his throttle THE ENGINE WOULD STOP OF ITS OWN ACCORD, THE BRAKES WOULD BE SET AUTOMATICALLY AND STOP THE WHOLE TRAIN.

You can see that such a system would have prevented the killing of those poor women and children on the Baltimore & Ohio.

BUT SUCH A SYSTEM COSTS MONEY.

It is cheaper to grind up a few women and children once in a while than to equip thousands of trains and tens of thousands of cars with automatic safety devices. The privately owned railroads hire the best lawyers and pay them by the year to fight every claim. THEN WHY SPEND MORE MONEY TO MAKE THE PEOPLE'S LIVES SAFE, WHEN YOUR LEGAL SYSTEM ENABLES YOU TO KILL THEM SAFELY?

Readers, PRIVATE ownership of PUBLIC necessities means discomfort every day.

PRIVATE ownership of PUBLIC necessities means robbery of the public every day. It means bribery of your officials as long as they are permitted to exchange your property for bribes.

It means corruption of your judges as long as with your money corrupt inducements are held out to them.

Private ownership of public necessities means that thousands are killed every year unnecessarily, TO SAVE MONEY AND PROVIDE DIVIDENDS ON WATERED STOCK.

Isn't it worth your while to think OCCASIONALLY of this matter?

Wanted—A New Kind of Lawyers

By Meyer Bloomfield

THE right of every human being to conditions which make manhood and womanhood possible will before long be treated by bench and bar with the same sense of sacredness as are questions of land and contracts.

Great constitutional questions were settled years ago. There is in this field but little room for displays forensic. Oratory is no longer wanted in the business court room. The people read and think for themselves, hence flights of eloquence no longer have the dramatic carrying power they enjoyed when educational opportunities were scant.

The professions are being tested anew in the light of our growing democracy. Larger demands are pressing upon the social sympathy of every individual. Where the response is wanting we may set it down as truth that this failure will react unfavorably upon both the individual and the influences that have unfitted him for democratic life.

Almost more than any other calling the profession of the lawyer, because it has in the past been favored with great public influence, will be scrutinized and weighed, and its attitude toward the problems which agitate our generation definitely appraised.

It cannot be enough that the lawyer shall merely do his duty by his clients and pocket his fee. Assuredly the lawyer who sells his wits to thwart the public will not bring the profession into general contempt. The critical judgment of the masses has been aroused and it is in action.

The respect of the thinking masses will not go to the unprogressive, to those who can be hired or bribed to postpone the inevitable changes that will give the people a better chance in the pursuit of what on the Fourth of July we call life, liberty and happiness.

A profession is sadly behind the times which takes no account of this generation's transforming touch. Even more significant are the barely articulated yearnings of the people who never have had a chance.

Because of obtuseness to these signs judge and lawyer, with a few striking exceptions, do not help as they might in the shaping of the new industrial creed. They were far more keen when our national political ideals were forming.

Apart from the peculiar temptations of commercial life, the shortcomings of the legal profession, when labor problems, for example, confront it, may be traced to serious omission in the usual law school training.

Most of the students get no glimpses of economic questions, except when a labor decision brings before them a technical, isolated, not professedly humane, aspect of them.

A course in economics and in social questions should be compulsory in the law schools. For a long time to come the most important questions before our courts, the most imperative measures before legislatures, will be those arising from industrial and industrial conditions.

When human values control judicial opinions such legal superstitions as freedom of contract, which never can exist where the parties are unequally situated, will be thoroughly exploded.

To reflecting people it has become clear that the masses, rather than the courts, are developing future law both written and unwritten. The people themselves are becoming the criterion of fair dealing and equitable relations, and this is as it should be, for at bottom they alone are the source of all law.

SOCIALISM AND THE AUTHOR

By George Bernard Shaw

IT is a rather nice question what the socialistic solution would be, as to how the artist would be paid under Socialism.

I really think that the very best solution is the simple solution—that they should not be paid at all. There is a great deal to be said for it, and yet I am convinced that it would not work.

I think, on the whole, we should get rather too much amateurishness. You will always have a class of men producing works of art, and you must out either give them a copyright, such as they have at the present time and enable them to extort from the rest of the community money payments for enjoying that work of art, either that, or you will have to endow them in some particular way.

The procedure of a socialistic state in that case would be, when a man produced a book, to purchase that book and thereby make it public property, and to give the producer of that book a pension, with the object of making him produce more books, or preventing him producing more books, whichever was the better thing.

No Solution

I DO not know any solution myself—the copyright solution is a most extraordinarily unsatisfactory one. It leads to the most grotesque inequalities.

You find a man at the present day who will write a novel of adventure, and will slosh it all over, and yet have an enormous sale and get a great deal of money.

Then you get another work, like a French dictionary; a monumental work, a thing which will take the whole lifetime of a most careful vegetarian to produce a thing which must have required the most amazing patience, coupled with the most astonishing endurance and the most revolting drudgery.

Then he will get very little indeed for it when it is done.

That is the sort of equality and justice which is produced by the copyright system.

No Suppression

I DO not know any other way of doing it; I have often tried to find out.

A copyright also involves this question—it gives an artist a power over his own work which is sometimes a very questionable power; it gives him the power of suppressing his own work, which is sometimes very undesirable.

I have always felt there are some things in my earlier writings of which I am beginning to disapprove. I am becoming an old fogy; I also am beginning to get more and more conservative.

I am bound in honor to refute myself at a previous period in my existence just as much as I am bound to refute anybody else. When a book has once gone forth I think it is an open question as to whether the author should have the power of suppressing it.

If a man has changed his mind, him say he has changed his mind, rather than suppress the article, and say he was more intelligent than he was at an earlier time.

That is one of the advantages the State buying the copyright of a book—the State would then prevent the author of a book from suppressing any portion of it afterward.
